The sprightly Chicago Cubs come slong Yorks at the Polo Grounds. Casey, Schulte, Slasie, Lundgren, O'Neill, Mejoney, Hoff-man and the other wanderers from Wickedville fought stubbornly to he mble the Champions, but they were the ones who had to knuckle under. knuckle under. They were shut out. There was only one run in the game, and the New Yorks made it. The isolated count was made in the first inning. After that the teams started in to collect goose eggs, and the stack of zeros grew higher and higher with every inning. Base hits were at a premium. Both Taylor and Lundgreen pitched magnificently, bringing batter after batter down with their almost perfectly controlled delivery, assorted for the different batters with such acumen as to make safeties so few and scattered that they were curiosities when they did happen.

While a pitcher's game, it was anything but a dull one. The fielding was sharp, sometimes of whirlwind quality. The Chicagos made most of the circus plays, but were not as steady as the New Yorks, and one of their errors was responsible for the New York run which decided the game. It was made on Browne in the first inning, Tinker fumbling for the first inning. Tinker fumbling the ball on high. Ten New Yorkers were disposed of through sending the ball aloft, which sand infteen of them in the whole game hitting the ball on high. Ten New Yorkers were disposed of through sending the ball aloft, which gave Slagie, Maloney and Schulte chances to show some fine outfield work. After Maloney had been hit in the first inning and nipped stealing not another Chicagoan reached base until Maloney singled in the fourth. Taylor had him caught napping, but MoQann threw wild to second base, the only New York error. There were two out, and the error cost nothing.

There were two out, and the error cost nothing.

In the fifth inning Joe Tinker took a ground hit of Gilbert's providing on the dead run with one hand, shifted the ball to the other hand while still under headway and threw Gilbert out. Right afterward Barry made a one hand stop of Taylor's slippery crawler and retired his man. Both players were cheered loudly. The Cubs made two hits in the fifth inning, but the foxiness of Dahlen rendered them harmless. With Hoffman on second and two out, O'Neill sent a grounder to Dahlen, which was too far away to be fielded to first. Hoffman, thinking Dahlen was going to throw to first, did not tarry at third, but dug for the plate. Dahlen was awake and threw to Bresnahan. Hoffman dodged back and forth elusively, but was finally run down after an exciting chase. Taylor was the man who tagged the agile Guarry.

The New Yorks slipped a cog in the pinth.

The New Yorks slipped a cog in the ninth when a blunder by Chicago gave them the best opportunity of the game to score. Devlin ppened with a single to right and Gilbert rounded to Holman. Hofman could have ouched Devlin out, but he tossed the ball to linker and Tinker was not on the base—faulty team play. This error of omission presaged darkly when Taylor moved both men up with a sacrifice. Donlin hit to Casey, who threw Devlin out at the plate. Donlin broke for second to draw a throw. O'Neill threw down to second, but Gilbert did not stir from third and Donlin was caught. The tir from third and Donlin was caught. The Patsy Flaherty's contortionist curves were straightened out for keeps by the Brocklyn batters yesterday. The Brocklyns bumped Patsy so hard they defeated the Pittsburgs. The game was a tie-up to the eighth inning when the Brocklyns did most of their damage with the stick. Babb began the fun with a swipe for three bases. Ritchey threw Ritter out, but McIntyre's wallop hurdled past McBride in a hurry, Babb scoring. Sheckard bunted safely, and Flaherty threw out Lumley, the drive damaging his hand. Batch's three bagger to center sent McIntyre and Sheckard home, and Owens's fourth hit of the game chaperoned Batch to the plate. The score:

NEW YORK (A. L.), 0; CHICAGO (A. L.), 0. CEICAGO, May 18.—Eleven innings of the flercest and most determined work, with no score, was how the game went to-day, and the angry teams would have fought on into utter darkness had not a tornado of sheeting rain come down upon them as the eleventh in-ning closed. It was a desperate struggle from start to finish. Neither pitcher was hittable, though both were very wild. sational field plays bobbed up all the time to kill off the runs, and wild warfare between eighteen players and the umpire helped the excitement along.

Griffith's men were dangerous all the time, but luck and nervy work choked them off. In the fourth Fultz drew four balls, went to second on an out, and Cooley stole third. A moment later he dashed home, expecting Conroy to complete the "squeeze." The ball came over beyond the reach of the bat and Fultz ran full into McFarland and the ball. In the fifth, with two out and two on bases, Keeler's little fly fell back of third. Three Chicago men were on top of the ball and the umpire said fair, two runs chasing in. The locals tock Connolly out in the field and showed him a hole in foul territory—thoughtfully dug by Davis with his heel before going in to kick—and Connolly reversed his decision, nothing following to bring in the runs. Three times great double plays stopped the White Sox. Yeager caught a liner and got back on third before a man could return in the fourth. In the sixth there was a man on third, and another on first, when the ball went whang into Conroy, and a lightning double play followed. The score:

opolitan Turf Association willglie a natural eath with the bookmakers' organization death with the bookmakers' organization accepting the terms which have already been aid down with firmness. From reliable ources THE SUN learned yesterday that the biggest bookmakers now operating at Bel-mont Park have decided to repudiate the policy mapped out by their leaders, including George Wheelock, Orlando Jones and Charles Heney. These bookmakers never wanted a conflict and at the present time are anxious to continue with the business un-molested. They do not feel that the action of the track managers in calling for eighty ooks in the front line each day warrants the friction that exists and they stand ready to begin a move to completely reorganize the Meta, if necessary, so that the track owners may be conciliated. It was said yesterday that Sol Lichtenstein, one of the governing committee, had flopped over to the element headed by Edward Burke, which has threntened legal proceedings in retaliation for the track owners' stand. With Burke and Lichtenstein it is said that William Cowen-George Levy, William Snow, Leo Mayer, William Connor, Robert Lloyd, W. J. Hayes and the Thompson have lined up, which means that the backbone of the proposed warfare as outlined by Wheelock, Jones and Heney has been effectively broken. furthermore, it is stated that powerful inuences of a political nature have been brought the result that a majority of the Mets, if called upon to vote, would openly advocate a peace-

Splendid racing, which was marked by three distinct triumphs for August Bel-mont's horses and by one of the best steeplechases ever run over a metropolitan cross-country course, served to send 30,000 persons away from Belmont Park yesterday afternoon in a most enthusiastic mood. The day was threatening, yet the crowd came early and the clubhenco was thronged with society. Automobil a covered the lawns and tallyho coaches pulled up near the trackside where the passengers from the city could view the sport in solid comfort. Had the weather been more favorable it is probable that the crowd, great as it was, would have taxed the ample accommodations to the limit, as racing is still enjoying the boom with which the sport was ushered in this spring at Aque-

The first four goals were made by the home team with stick work which was a surprise to everybody. Lehigh then came in for two points by Extos and Harrower. Murray closed the half with a shot for Stevens, making the score 5—2 in the institute's favor.

In the second half Murray made the first goal for Stevens, followed by one for Lehigh by Harrower. Prechtel then brought the secre to 6—4 by a pretty shot from the field. Soon after Davis, the Stevens captain, got an ugly cut on the head, which stopped the game for several minutes. However, he managed to get into the game again, and a minute after McKinlay, close to goal, made the seventh Stevens point. The next shot caused a dispute, just going through a corner of the net. Both teams did some hard work, but neither side scored again, and the figures remained 9—5 in favor of Stevens. Stevens recovered its eld time horosse
